A Scientific Experiment

By Robert C. V. Meyers

Copyright, 1904, by Robert C. V. Meyers

"How unkind women can be to women," he mused. "Mrs. Van is letting herself out. Maybe, though, she has been all along like this in private, and now I go there so frequently she is getting not to mind me. And I am to blame!" And he went on to the Templeton reception.

In her rosy room Mrs. Van Styler felt more comfortable than had been the case for days.

"After all," she said vaguely, "scientific experiments are wonderful things." She rested her chin on her hands and looked into the flare of the grate with a reminiscent expression in her eyes.

The secretary made up the ten minutes following day, and, although Mr. Harroway did not put in an appearance, Mrs. Van Styler was quite difficult; said that the plain manner in which the secretary wore her hair was disgraceful and felt that she could tell her so because she had gone to school with her mother; quite agreed with her secretary, who, she insisted, had so expressed herself, that Tom Harroway was no use in the world and that if he had a grain of manliness in his composition he would attempt a business career. She said she felt she could so criticize the young man in his absence because his father had been one of her earliest beaux.

A few days later, and when this sort of medicine had been given in heroic doses, Harroway came for his cup of tea. He was very cheerful. Mrs. Van Styler was puzzled, but wisely waited for him to explain himself.

"Well," he said at length, "I have two confessions to make. One of them is that I am going into business. John Templeton will have me for a partner. You know we were graduated together."

NEW THOUGHTS.

Are you growing more attractive as you advance in life?

"Given a healthy body," says Dr. R. V. Pierce, the specialist in women's diseases, of Buffalo, N. Y., "and a healthy mind, and everyone can be beautiful. It is a fact that any form of dyspepsia may in a few days transform a clear, white skin into a mass of pimples and black spots. A beautiful woman has the beauty of her stomach."

We must eat properly and digest well to be beautiful. It is a fact that any form of dyspepsia may in a few days transform a clear, white skin into a mass of pimples and black spots. A beautiful woman has the beauty of her stomach."

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery maintains a person's nutrition by enabling one to eat, retain, digest and assimilate the proper nutritious food. It overcomes the gastric irritability and symptoms of indigestion, and thus the person is saved from those symptoms of fever, night-sweats, headache, etc., which are so common. A tonic made up largely of alcohol will shrink the corpuscles of the blood and make them weaker for resistance.

"This is to certify that I have used Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, think it's the greatest medicine in the world," writes Mrs. V. M. Young, of Weir, W. Va. "I had dyspepsia in its worst form. I decided to try your medicine. I used five bottles, and now I am doing my own housework. A number of my friends also are using Dr. Pierce's medicine and they recommend it highly. May God bless you in your grand work."

Dr. Pierce believes that a tonic made with alcohol will shrink the red blood corpuscles and make the system weak for resistance; that is why he avoided the use of any alcohol or narcotics in his "Medical Discovery," which contains the pure extract from roots and herbs without a particle of alcohol.

Accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery." There is nothing out of "just as good" for dyspepsia or debility.

Biliousness is cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets.

The thought of Harroway's possible flirtation with Miss Templeton made her feel that she should like to look her best that evening. Her hair was her first care, and she arranged it so as to set off its abundance and color.

"As though it would be in good taste to wear it this way when I am attending to business!" she said loftily.

Next she donned a white gown full of fineness and rippling with ribbons. She looked in the glass and was not dissatisfied with the reflection.

It was then 8 o'clock, and she sat down and waited for the lady who was to escort her to the opera. Instead the lady had to go and tumble down the back stairs and received such contusions and abrasions as made it impossible for her to stir from the house that night. Of course the secretary could not go alone, so she started to take off her finery. All at once the enormity of Mrs. Van Styler's treatment of her struck her more cruelly than ever. Should she keep on accepting that lady's favors? "Not if I had a dozen mothers," she said, "and she had been to school with every one of them!"

She would inform Mrs. Van Styler tomorrow that she must decline to act as her secretary any longer.

Tomorrow! It was not yet 9 o'clock. Mrs. Van Styler had commanded her to come to her at 9. Why not go tonight and tell her not to expect her next day and, just as she was, let that arrogant schoolmate of her mother see her possibilities as a well dressed woman?

It was all very foolish, very girlish, but she did not care to be considered a dowdy any more than she would accept gratuitous contumely.

A maid-servant was coerced, and, covered with a long cloak, the secretary went forth on an errand prompted by righteous indignation.

At about the same time Mrs. Van Styler was issuing from her maid's ministrations also in opera array. She seldom courted music until late in the evening, when, as she said, she reached Wagner's agony and soon had it over. She looked up as her secretary entered the rosy room, whose shaded candles cast a most becoming light. Perhaps she had never been so scared in all her life before. She had not expected Amy, and the brilliancy of the girl's eyes and the bloom on her face told her that a battle was imminent.

The secretary eased the clasp of her cloak—there was a pulse in her throat that hurt her. For when she stood in the presence of her mother's old friend who had been of such signal service to her and noted that Mrs. Van Styler's face now showed kindness and even admiration her courage seemed to ebb from her.

Mrs. Van Styler was the first to speak.

"I am so sorry, Amy, child," she said, "to bring you out at night. I wasn't in earnest."

Not in earnest! At that the secretary's courage flowed back again. Was she to be made sport of all around?

"I came," she said, "to tell you to look out for another secretary. I am no longer in your employ."

Mrs. Van Styler regarded her in silence, knowing not what to say, admiring the girl's well arranged hair, her face that was beautiful in its excitement, but, more than all, her spirit and vigor.

Now, Harroway had felt uncomfortable all the early part of the evening. By the time he had dined at the club he was quite of opinion that he should visit at Mrs. Van Styler's no more. He refused to be a further witness of the humiliation of a poor girl at the hands of the lady who presumed on the fact of his being her heir and so making marriage arrangements for him. Confound the money! First, he must set Mrs. Van right with regard to Charlotte Templeton. She had cut him off when he had begun to tell her about Charlotte's engagement to the count, taking it for granted that he himself was the happy man. A woman like that must not remain uncorrected in such a mistake. And if the secretary thought he was flirting—He wiped the perspiration from his brow.

But why shouldn't he go to Mrs. Van's this evening, not waiting till tomorrow afternoon? By tomorrow some one or other might be already told of his presumed engagement to Charlotte Templeton. It irritated him mightily to think of such a report being attributed to him, even though the mistake might be corrected later on.

He went. On the threshold of the pink room he paused. Inside the two women confronted each other.

"Another thing," the secretary was saying, "you tell me that you have informed Mr. Harroway that I despise him for having no desire to make his way in the world. I never said so. I told you that every man, in my opinion, should do his best to carve out a niche for himself in the world."

Just then the speaker saw Tom Harroway. Her hand that had clutched the cloak at her throbbing throat faltered, and the long loose garment slid down to the floor, and she stood revealed in a fleecy white gown, a fair vision of girlish charm.

Harroway took a step toward her, she looked so sweet and lovable.

"I should like," he said, "to—that is I wish to correct something!"

"Nonsense!" interrupted Mrs. Van Styler in a loud voice, and refusing to let the girl use her as a shield. "I know you are not engaged to Charlotte Templeton. While you may not know it, I am a bit of a scientist, which accounts for my recent behavior toward you and Amy—Ah, I must see my maid!"

She fairly tottered from the room, closing the door after her, noting as she went away that the secretary let Harroway take her hand, the young woman and the young man looking preposterously happy, if somewhat surprised.

In her sleeping room she sank on the side of the bed as her maid ran to her. "Beef tea!" she managed to say. "I experimented scientifically to see if they couldn't be made to fall in love with each other, and something about going to school with somebody's mother and having somebody else's father for one of her earliest beaux."

At that time in the rose colored room Harroway talked with the secretary.

"I came tonight to have it out with her," he said.

"Oh, did you?" she cried blithely. "I was waiting to see when you should do so. I should never have done it myself if I waited till doomsday, after!"

"After you thought I was flirting with Charlotte Templeton?" he asked admiringly.

She shrugged her shoulders.

"So much of the jest is gone," she said. "Mrs. Van has been playing with us all the time, the mean old dear."

Just then the "mean old dear" rushed into the room. She had found it impossible to keep away.

"Oh," she said, "Amy—Tom—all this has been a scientific experiment. I designed to bring you two together."

"And you succeeded," responded Harroway, taking Amy by the hand, "for we have been married over a month!"

SHE CLAIMS THE TOWN

Indiana Woman Seeks Possession of Orwingsburg, Pa.

Laporte, Ind., May 11.—Mrs. Jane Tilt of this city has left for Orwingsburg, Pa., to bring action in the courts of that state for the possession of 100 acres of land on which is situated that thriving town. The property has a valuation of $1,000,000. Mrs. Tilt claims the ownership because of the finding of a 99-year lease now almost expired, executed by her grandfather. A bitter struggle is likely in the courts, but her attorneys here declare that the Indiana woman's claim can be established.

STRAINING A POINT

Sherlock Holmes in Minnesota's Index Prohibitorius.

St. Paul, May 11.—The Minnesota library commission has placed A. Conan Doyle's "Return of Sherlock Holmes" under ban, refusing to put it on the list of books for libraries and public schools, state and commission. It takes the stand that pupils should not read detective stories and adventures, and that Sherlock Holmes might entice the impressionable from the paths of rectitude.

SHOCKING WRECK

Pennsylvania Express Train
Runs Into a Dynamite Train.

FIFTY WERE KILLED

In the Explosion That Followed the Cars of the Passenger Train Were Blown to Pieces.

Fire That Resulted Incinerated Many Victims of Horrid Wreck At Harrisburg.

Harrisburg, Pa., May 11.—An express train of the Pennsylvania railroad ran into a freight train in which there were two cars loaded with dynamite, at South Harrisburg. Three terrific explosions followed and the two trains were completely wrecked and took fire. It is estimated that fifty persons were killed and one hundred injured, though these figures may be too small.

It is impossible to ascertain the exact number of fatalities, because the wreckage was completely consumed and many of the passengers were incinerated.

When the first explosion occurred bodies were thrown clear out of the cars, many landing down on the railroad embankment, and some even having been hurled into the Susquehanna river, which parallels the railroad in that locality.

The train was the second section of No. 19. There were 169 passengers in the train. The hospital is crowded to the doors and the hotels were opened for the care of the injured. It may be necessary for the authorities to seize one of the hotels and turn it into a temporary hospital.

The force of the collision crushed all the passenger cars, which piled up in a huge mass with those of the freight. Instantly the two trains were masses of flames. With the crash the passengers were hurled in all directions. Many were tossed free of the wreckage. All who were not pinned in the debris or totally incapacitated, ran away from the wreck, which was a perfect volcano of flames, from which came frequently small explosions. It was impossible at the time for those who escaped uninjured to reach the imprisoned passengers, whose cries rent the air and could be heard for blocks. As soon as some of the dead and injured were reached they were laid in long, ghastly rows along the tracks.

BEAUTIFUL MEMORIAL

Plans for McKinley Mausoleum Formally Adopted.

New York, May 11.—The trustees of the McKinley National Memorial association have formally approved the design for a mausoleum submitted by H. VanBuren McGonigle. At present the body of President McKinley is in a public vault in West Lawn cemetery, Canton. The association has purchased a tract of land adjoining the cemetery which will be known as Monument Hill. The approach to the hill, which is seventy-four feet high, called "The Mall," which is 600 feet in length, will be beautified at an approximate expense of $50,000. Along the middle of this mall with a wide walk on either side, will be a "waterway" or artificial lake. A broad and massive flight of steps will lead from the foot of the hill up to and in fact form part of the mausoleum. From the foot of the hill to the top of the mausoleum the height of the stone structure will be in the neighborhood of 175 feet.

The mausoleum will in general resemble the tomb of General Grant. The main feature will be a dome about 75 feet in diameter and 100 feet high. The structure will be of granite, but the interior will be finished in white marble. The entire cost will be in the neighborhood of $500,000.

Look Out for These Swindlers.

Chicago, May 11.—Two or more men using the names Anderson, Craft and Todd have been engaged fraudulently for two months in soliciting subscriptions for magazines and other periodicals in the name of the American Press Association as subscription agent. They have operated here, in Omaha, Council Bluffs, Sioux City and other places. At an earlier date they had worked the Eastern states. The American Press Association is not a subscription agency; anyone soliciting subscriptions in its name is necessarily a swindler.

Looks Like Suicide.

New Haven, Conn., May 11.—Arthur Haserot, a Yale senior living in Cleveland, O., was found shot to death in his room in Welch Hall, one of the campus dormitories, and an investigation into the case is being conducted. Medical Examiner Bartlett stated that he believed death was the result of accident or suicide. A revolver was found near Haserot's side and there was a bullet wound in his head.

President Roosevelt's Address Touches on Strike Situation.

NATION BACK OF STATE

Rarely Has Such Enthusiasm Been Aroused in Banquet Hall as When President Spoke.

In Urging the Need of Law and Order He Gave the Word With Bark on It.

Chicago, May 11.—Rarely before in this city has such genuine enthusiasm been evoked as was awakened by President Roosevelt at the conclusion of his speech at the travels club banquet last night. As he announced the fact that behind the state the nation would stand for the preservation of order in Chicago, wild cheers and the vigorous clapping of hands interrupted him for several minutes.

In concluding his address the president said: "This government is not and never shall be the government of a plutocracy. This government is not and never shall be the government of a mob. [Great applause.] I believe in corporations. They are indispensable instruments of our modern industrialism, but I believe that they should be so supervised and regulated that they would act for the interest of the community as a whole. So I believe in unions. I am proud of the fact that I am an honorary member of one union, but I believe that the union, like the individual, must be kept to a strict accountability to the power of the law. [Applause and cheers and cries of "Good, good!"]

"Mayor Dunne, as president of the United States and therefore as the representative of the people of this country, I give you as a matter of course my hearty support in upholding the law, in keeping order, in putting down violence, whether by a mob or by an individual. And there need not be the slightest apprehension in the hearts of the most timid that ever the mob spirit will triumph in this country. [Cheers.] Those immediately responsible for dealing with the trouble must, as I know you feel, exhaust every effort in so dealing with it before call is made upon any outside body. But if ever the need arises, back of the city stands the state and back of the state stands the nation." [Cheers.]

When the president brought his address to a close his auditors shouted, cheered and waved their napkins in approval. Some of the guests, carried away with enthusiasm, jumped on the tables heedless of linen and china and glassware and sent forth cheer after cheer.

Mayor Dunne, profoundly moved by the words of the president, sprang from his seat and grasped the president's hand, which he shook vigorously while he expressed his gratitude. For fully ten minutes the hall rang with the applause, while both Democrats and Republicans gathered around the president to offer their congratulations on his speech. Smiling and bowing in response to the congratulations showered upon him, the president, attended by President Gunther and the members of the reception committee of the club, slowly made his way from the hall to his rooms to prepare for his departure from the city. Thirty minutes after midnight the president's train pulled out of Chicago, en route to Washington.

PRESIDENT HEARD PROTEST

And Then Said There Was No Talk of Sending Troops to Chicago.

Chicago, May 11.—A strongly worded protest against the sending of federal troops to Chicago was submitted to President Roosevelt during his stay here. Charging that the employers have repeatedly spurned the request of the labor leaders for arbitration, the protest declares the employers openly boasted that federal troops would back up the employers' side of the controversy.

"Peace," says the protest of the labor leaders, "rests not upon the militia or the army, but upon the patience and long suffering of the toiling mass. Can a few soldiers scare the men who make armies and who compose the flower of American manhood?" declaring that the workers will abide by the decision of an arbitrator, even should that decision fail to be all that might be hoped for. The appeal to the president closes with the request that he consider all the facts in the case before he permits any abuse of federal power in complying with a request for troops.

The committee presenting the protest was received by the president in person at the Auditorium Annex. The members of the committee expressed themselves as gratified at their reception by the president. The president told them that no demand had been made upon him for the use of troops in Chicago. In concluding the interview the president said: "I am a believer in unions. I am an honorary member of one union. But the union must obey the law just as every man, rich or poor, must obey the law. As yet no action has been called for by me, and most certainly if action is called for by me I shall try to do exact justice under the law to every man, so far as I have power. But the first essential is the preservation of law and order, the suppression of violence by mobs or individuals."

During the luncheon at the Merchants' club yesterday afternoon, Mayor Dunne and President Roosevelt had an extended talk in which the strike situation was discussed. The mayor explained the present situation in the city and told of the measures taken to preserve peace and order. The president was much interested in what the mayor had to tell him. Mayor Dunne told the president that the most alarming stage of the strike has passed and that the police have control of the situation, while the merchants are making peaceable deliveries of their goods under the protection of the police and deputy sheriffs. The mayor also informed the president that there is no need for federal aid in Chicago at the present time and expressed the opinion that the strike will gradually subside until normal conditions are resumed.

UNIQUE BOOSTERS' CLUB

Cigar Store Product Gives Systematic Aid to Churches.

Bloomington, Ill., May 11.—There is a unique organization at Normal, the educational suburb of this city. It is known as the Boosters' club and holds a meeting at a local cigar store every Sunday morning at 9:30 o'clock. The members then vote upon some church for attendance at the morning service. The church receiving the largest vote is selected and the club marches in a body to that office. When the contribution basket is passed each member must contribute $1. As the membership of the club is fifty-five, the distribution of money is always an important item to the church chosen for attendance.

The members are non-church-goers and they have been accustomed to spending Sunday morning talking politics and smoking. A recent suggestion to reform and attend divine service in the manner indicated met with an enthusiastic approval.

THURSDAY MAY 11, 1905

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT was given an ovation in Chicago Wednesday and what he said about obedience to law and his condemnation of mob violence applied to Chicago right now. He warned both labor and capital against actions that disturb the peace of a community and interfere with the rights of an innocent public.

THE man who buys his supplies from the Chicago mail order houses makes no money for himself. He can buy the same grade of goods just as cheaply of the home merchant and he can see the goods before he buys it. The man who is a patron of the catalogue houses will learn his mistake in due time, but such mistakes should not be made in the first place.

STAND on the street any evening and you can count several boys jumping on automobiles, buggies and wagons as they pass along. This practice is not only annoying to those driving these vehicles but they are dangerous to the boys. This practice should be broken up and Mayor Graessle is determined that it shall be. If the boys do not heed the warning an example should be made of a few of them before some of them are crippled or killed.

Drafts Protested.

A man giving his name as C. P. Hull went to North Vernon a few days ago and before long he was showing drafts on a Kentucky bank for $7,000. On the strength of this paper evidence of wealth he purchased a buggy, an abundant supply of clothing and other articles of value and paid for them with sight drafts on the Kentucky bank. Now he has disappeared with about $700 worth of goods purchased and the drafts are coming back protested.

Made Report.

Rev. Harley Jackson made a report to the Modern Woodmen Wednesday night of his observations at the meeting of the Stat Camp at South Bend. He said it was indeed a great meeting, attended by enthusiastic delegates from over the state. Much interest he said was manifested in the Stat Log-Rolling to be held here in September and he lost no opportunity to put in a good word for this meeting.

Will Test The Law.

A case goes to the supreme court from Madison county to test the anti-cigarette law. A user of the "cigarette" was arrested in Anderson and convicted in police court. An appeal was taken to the circuit court and that court upheld the trial court. The case will be filed in the circuit court on appeal as soon as possible.

Alumni Meeting.

The Seymour High School Alumni Association will meet tomorrow evening at 7:30 in the assembly room at the library. All members of the Association are urged to attend and be there at that hour. Business of importance.

Lafayette Wants It.

The word has gone out that Lafayette will try to secure the state's encampment of the G. A. R. next year. The people of that city believe that if they can enlist the support of Governor Hanly they can win over any other city. The meeting this year is to be at Madison.

Venued To Scott.

The case of George Findley vs Wm. H. Endebrook as executor, to set aside will, the case of Charles H. Schroeder vs B. & O. S. W. Railroad Co. for damages, and the divorce case of James Burgin vs Christina Burgin have been venued to this county from Jackson.—Scottsburg Chronicle.

Near The End.

Assessor Lawell and his deputies are getting pretty well through with the work of listing the property in Jackson township for assessment. They will have this work all done by May 15 and be ready to make returns to the auditor in due time.

Squirrel Cost From $47.
Vincennes, Ind., May 11.—Because Fred Vanling killed a squirrel in violation of the game law, he was fined $47 by Justice Fife. County Councilman George L. McCoy swore to the affidavit causing Vanling's arrest. Vanling paid his fine, which was the heaviest ever given anyone for violating the game law in this county.

Hummel's Trial Set.
New York, May 11.—The trial of Lawyer Abraham Hummel, who is under indictment on charges of conspiracy and subornation of perjury in connection with the Dodge-Morse divorce, has been fixed to begin in the criminal branch of the supreme court on June 6.

ROAD WORK.

New Law Has Some Drastic Features.

Under the new law all males from twenty-five to fifty are required to work in the roads two to four days, each year, unless insane, idiotic, deaf and dumb, or have served in the Civil war, the Spanish war, or in the Philippine islands. All men able to do an ordinary day's work must be noted as able bodied. If a supervisor allows a Canada thistle to grow six inches high in the roads of his district he is liable to a fine of from $1 to $10. Contrarywise, he will receive a reward of $5 in each case where he reports any one in his district allowing Canada thistles to grow, should conviction follow. A person who sets a corner stone in a road so that it projects out of the ground may be fined $25 and $50 fine may be assessed for dumping trash or rubbish in a road. Anyone hauling too heavy loads over roads while thawing out must pay $50 or less on conviction. Conditions embodied in the automobile law may also be observed.

SEEING AMERICA.

Wonderful Scenic Trip Across Rocky Mountains to Oregon Exposition.

In certain respects the excursions to the Lewis and Clark Centennial Exposition, Portland, Oregon, via Pennsylvania Lines, beginning May 2nd and continuing through the summer, offer advantages never before presented to Exposition visitors. The trip to the Oregon Exposition in addition to the attractiveness of the extensive exhibits, includes the journey through the scenic wonderland of the Rocky Mountains and the Cascade Range, and what American has not looked forward from the days of the geography class in school to the time when those great vistas should be seen in reality? The time was never so favorable as now. The trip may be made less expensive than ever. For only a slight difference in fare tourists may extend their trip to San Francisco and Los Angeles. The return trip may be made over different route, enabling travelers to view much more of the west. For full particulars, fares, dates of special excursions to Portland on account of conventions, through time and passenger service apply to ticket agent of Pennsylvania Lines.

STARTLING REPORT

Rumored That 500 Were Killed by Oklahoma Tornado.

Sapulpa, I. T., May 11.—Dispatchers for the Frisco line in this city have received a report from Enid, O. T., advising that a tornado had struck Snyder, Okla., wrecking the town and killing 500 people. The request came for assistance. On the strength of the report the dispatcher ordered a relief train with physicians to be sent from Chickasha, I. T., and Quanah, Tex. The wire between Snyder and Sapulpa is down.

COULDN'T BE GOOD

Despite Agreement, Rioters Forget President's Presence.

Chicago, May 11.—It was generally understood by both sides to the strike that there would be no disturbance while President Roosevelt was in the city yesterday afternoon and last night. Notwithstanding this passive agreement, there were several outbreaks, one of them taking place in Michigan avenue a short time after President Roosevelt had passed along, and a number of men were cut and shot.

The fight commenced when five union teamsters recognized Joseph Stewart, colored, as a non-union driver. They rushed at him and he started on a run for the non-union headquarters. He tripped and fell just as he entered the door and called for help. A score of his comrades answered and a pitched battle followed at once. One of the five union men drew a revolver and fired, striking Stewart in the leg. Two other colored men were hurt in the scrimmage. The teamsters were beaten by the colored men and compelled to fly.

George S. Pierce, a union teamster, was shot and killed last night by Geo. T. Waldron, a deputy sheriff, who was guarding a Wells-Fargo Express company wagon. Pierce was passing the intersection of Clark and Seventeenth streets when the wagon under guard of several deputies, among whom was Waldron, came down Clark street. Waldron was formerly a member of the teamsters' union and Pierce taunted him with his change in employment. Angered by the language of Pierce, Waldron drew a revolver and fired one shot, the bullet striking Pierce just above the heart. He died while being taken to the hospital. Waldron was arrested.

There were several other instances of stone throwing, but compared to what has existed in the streets for a week past the situation was mild indeed. The employers' association is steadily increasing its force of non-union men, and to day it is said has fully 2,000 men ready to take charge of the wagons. Advertisements have been inserted in the out-of-town newspapers for workmen. This call for help has met with quick responses from the country districts.

A Listless Derby.

Louisville, Ky., May 11.—Moving with a long, stealing, effortless stride, Agtle, Captain S. S. Brown's beautiful bay colt, passed under the wire an easy winner over a slow track of the thirty-first Kentucky Derby. Three and a half lengths behind him came Ram's Horn, on whom the hopes of Tennessee and the bluegrass horsemen were fixed. Trailing fifteen lengths to the rear came Layson, from the stable of T. P. Hayes. With but three starters it was a one-horse race. The time for the mile and a quarter was 2:10 3/4. Nearly 20,000 people saw the race run.

Election of Officers.

French Lick Springs, Ind., May 11.—The American Water Works association in session here elected the following officers: Ben C. Adkins, St. Louis, president; Charles T. Rowe, Dayton, O., first vice president; Dabney H. Maury, Peru, Ill., second vice president; George H. Felix, third vice president; John B. Heim, fourth vice president; Alex. Miln, fifth vice president; John M. Diven, secretary-treasurer.

Indiana Priest Honored.

Rome, May 11.—The Rev. Thomas Welkert, O. S. B., of St. Meinrad, Ind., has been appointed by the pope a member of the biblical commission.

TERSE TELEGRAMS

It is reported that thirteen Jews were killed in riots at Melitopol, in the government of Taurida, Russia. The Kentucky derby was won by Agtle by three lengths; Rams Horn second; Laison third; time, 2:10 3/4. A lockout and tieup of the coal mines may be the result of the passage by the Illinois legislature of the shot-firers' bill. The Connecticut legislature in joint session formally declared Frank B. Brandage elected United States senator for the unexpired term of the late Senator O. H. Platt. Baron de Rosen will be the successor to Count Cassini as ambassador of Russia to the United States. The latter has been ordered to Madrid by the czar. Ex-Governor Stone of Pennsylvania has submitted a proposition that the Keystone state be divided in two, that the western half may be relieved from Philadelphia's domination. The headquarters of the Ohio division of the rural free delivery in Cincinnati will be removed to Indianapolis July 1. The division includes Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky.
